NEGRO SUFFRAGE.

LETTER FROM JOHN STUART MILL.

CINCINNATI, September 19, 1865. DEAR SIR - Some weeks since, I received from you a copy of an argument against universal suffrage...

W. M. DICKSON.

BLACKHEATH PARK, KENT, Sept. 1, 1865.

DEAR SIR - I am sincerely obliged to you for giving me an opportunity of reading the letter of General Cox, and your excellent paper in reply...

LETTER OF GEN. COX REVIEWED.

BY HON. W. M. DICKSON.

Gen. Cox opposes negro suffrage upon the single ground that the white man and the black man cannot live in the same community. The effect of the war has developed a "rooted antagonism" which makes their permanent fusion in one political community an absolute impossibility.

SECRETARY STANTON.

General Stanton, in a speech at the Institute Fair, said the following tribute to Mr. Stanton:

"Here let me pause to pay a tribute to one upon whom, more than upon any other public servant, have rested the vast and varied responsibilities which the conduct of our great war imposed."

Our Country is the World, our Countrymen are all Mankind.

It would say, on the contrary, that by declaring themselves independent of the Union, they could not, indeed, divest themselves of its obligations, but certainly forfeit its privileges. A state of civil war suspends all legal rights, and all social compacts between the combatants.

LETTER FROM AN EMINENT GEORGIAN.

SPRING BANK, AUG. 20, 1865.

EDITOR INTELLIGENCER: The receipt of a letter from a friend, one of our most estimable and distinguished men, has suggested to me the subject of the letter which I am now writing to you.

WHY COPPERHEADS OPPOSE NEGRO SUFFRAGE.

When the colored people of the South are enfranchised, there will be eight hundred thousand votes given for the Republican Union ticket, as not one black man in a hundred could be expected to vote for the Copperhead disunion ticket.

General Stanton, in a speech at the Institute Fair, said the following tribute to Mr. Stanton:

"Here let me pause to pay a tribute to one upon whom, more than upon any other public servant, have rested the vast and varied responsibilities which the conduct of our great war imposed. When the rebellion declared itself, toward the close of the administration of President Buchanan, an eminent lawyer, who had never held office nor been conspicuous as a partisan in politics, was called into the Cabinet as Attorney General. His presence was instantly felt, in the vigorous measures taken to enlarge the authority of the Government."

EQUAL SUFFRAGE IN NORFOLK, VA.

Ever since the evacuation of Norfolk by the rebels, and its occupation by the Union Army, on May 10th, 1862, the colored people of that district have enjoyed the blessings of freedom, and the more than paternal care and protection of the United States Government.

THE ANDERSONVILLE POST-OFFICE.

The following touching lines, descriptive of an incident in the pen of prisoners at Andersonville, Ga., are attributed to G. H. Hollister, Esq., of Littlefield, Ct. The war has elicited nothing of sadder interest.

FAREWELL.

Farewell, my boy O, blessed thought, He cannot go where God is not;

following preamble and resolutions were reported, which, after a little discussion, were put to the meeting and adopted unanimously:—

Resolved, That, as a committee of five be appointed by the chair, to take such action as may be deemed desirable, in case of the rejection, by the conductors of the election, of the votes so offered.

Resolved, That, in view of the exigencies of the times, and the necessity that all men elected to State offices should be men of tried fidelity to the Union, and of liberal sentiments, and that the candidates now before the public are in no way representative of the loyal citizens of Norfolk, but only of themselves, we therefore nominate and pledge ourselves to the support at the polls of the following candidates:—

For the Senate—D. W. Todd, Sr. House of Delegates—Francis De Cordy and James H. Hall.

Resolved, That the Secretary be instructed to transmit the foregoing resolutions to the Secretary of State, with a request that they be laid before the President of the United States, and that copies of the same be sent to those members of Congress who have shown themselves favorable to the elective franchise of the colored man, and the same be published in the local paper, and also sent to the other papers friendly to the cause, with a request for insertion.

Resolved, That, in view of the exigencies of the times, and the necessity that all men elected to State offices should be men of tried fidelity to the Union, and of liberal sentiments, and that the candidates now before the public are in no way representative of the loyal citizens of Norfolk, but only of themselves, we therefore nominate and pledge ourselves to the support at the polls of the following candidates:—

city, if he were fortunate enough to escape hanging in the market-place, while now the avowed advocates of negro suffrage, on their first appeal to the people of this city, stand only second at the poll, there is quite enough in that single fact to fill every patriotic heart with wonder and gratitude at the astounding progress which, under Providence, has been made by public opinion in the direction of impartial freedom.

Mr. O. S. Belcher testified that he had served in the 16th Illinois Cavalry, and was a prisoner at Andersonville from the 8th of March until September, 1864. He thought that Capt. Wirz assumed command about the 1st of April. On one occasion, Wirz came into the stockade, when a cripple, walking on crutches, approached, and asked to go outside.

you $500 out of my own pocket; and you young sons of bitches, I'll make you smell hell before you are sentenced to work in the grave-yard; every day, be put on half-rations, stand in the stocks at night, and be the last man excoriated, if you don't work, I'll put you on top of the dead, and you'll see 'em there, too. Florence, W. W. Cradall, Fourth Iowa, testified as to a man being badly bitten in the calves by dogs, and soon thereafter fastened at each ankle with a chain and ball; the man having been kept in this condition for several weeks, the witness went to Wirz and pleaded for the release of the prisoner; but Wirz said he could not do it; the legs were swollen and had a puritified look; a rebel surgeon being appealed to, he said he could not conscientiously take off more than one chain, which he did; the man finally died.

gentle debauchery holds nightly revel, a person from Buffalo or New York was robbed of all his personal possessions. The character of this house and adjoining ones has been such that for some time the proper efforts of the law have been set at defiance. It is utterly impossible to explain perfectly why these sinks of infamy have been allowed to flourish, except that influence, money, or intimidation, or, three, have given them entire impunity, or support. These houses are all situated along the line of the New York Central Railroad, between the bridge and the falls, and being furnished with all the appliances that money could procure, were the halting resort of male visitors to the favorite watering-place.

THE WIRZ TRIAL.

At the close of the proceedings in the Wirz trial lately, a remarkable scene took place. The witness on the stand, an Indiana cavalryman, named George W. Gray, had been testifying to some outrage on the part of Wirz, that had not been put in evidence before.
