ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT TO THE FIRST REGIMENT OF COLORED TROOPS, OCT. 10.

MR. FRIENDS—My object in presenting myself before you on this occasion is simply to thank you for the service of the country to sustain and carry by its banner and its laws triumphantly in every part of this broad land. I repeat, I appear before you on the present occasion merely to tender you my thanks for the compliment you have paid me on your return home, to again be associated with your friends and relations, and those you hold so dear and dear. I repeat, I have but little to say.

THE PRESIDENT AND HIS POLICY.

BY REV. ROBERT M. HATFIELD.

Few men have ever had such opportunities for achieving extensive usefulness and imperishable glory as have been placed within the reach of Andrew Johnson. His elevation to the presidency occurred at a time when the nation was overwhelmed with sorrow, and when the people were ready to give him their love and confidence in no stinted measure. We followed our ascending Elijah with wistful and tear-dimmed eyes, and consoled ourselves with the thought that his successor had caught his falling mantle.

PLAIN TALK TO THE FLORIDIANS.

Judge Marvin, the Provisional Governor of Florida, made an address to the people of Quincy, Florida, on the 13th September.

Judge Marvin, the Provisional Governor of Florida, made an address to the people of Quincy, Florida, on the 13th September. It was replete with enlightened sentiments, and a sound, sensible advice to the citizens of the State. On the subject of secession, he told them that—

THE TRUE RING.

A newspaper of the right sort has at last been started in Richmond. It is appropriately called "The New Nation."

A newspaper of the right sort has at last been started in Richmond. It is appropriately called "The New Nation." It is edited by James W. Hunnicutt, a truly loyal Virginian, who for twelve years prior to the Rebellion, edited the "Fredericksburg Christian Banner," a paper which was not only a large, handsome, well filled sheet, and is a fearless advocate of freedom and equal rights.

AN ERA IN THE COUNTRY.

The address of President Johnson to the regiment of colored troops recruited in the District of Columbia, is really one of the remarkable events of the present time. That a President of the United States should devote an hour to counselling those who, only four years ago, had no rights which white men were bound to respect, that he should enforce the idea of the government being based upon the principle of equality, and speak of the dusky warriors before him as countrymen, significantly indicates the position now occupied by the nation.

NEGRO SUFFRAGE.

One objection which is urged against permitting the negroes of the South to vote is, that they are not prepared for the proper exercise of that right. Well, perhaps they are not so fully prepared as the Yankees, born among free institutions, nurtured in our educational institutions, who read the papers, and engage in public affairs.

A PARSON CROSS-EXAMINED.

The Rev. Gov. Brownlow, in his Annual Message to the Legislature of Tennessee, said: "I am convinced that the white and colored people cannot live together politically or socially as equals."

THE DEPOSITIONS OF COLORED PEOPLE.

It is not a new thing for the depositions of colored people to be taken in civil courts equal with those of white men. We have seen many such depositions taken, and the results have been equally successful.

THE REBELS' SURRENDER. A correspondent of the Springfield Republican, who is travelling down South, met the pirate Semmes, and thus describes him: "Semmes, whom loyal men call 'pirate,' and rebels call 'admiral,' was on board, and I studied him closely to discover that noble, chivalric bearing which I have heard ascribed to him by those who used to be thrilled with rapture at his brave and gallant attacks upon unarmed whalers and merchantmen."

LORD LYONS AND THE DEMOCRATIC LEADERS. There is no incident in the action of the Democratic party during the war, which should never be forgotten. We refer to the visit made by its leader to the British Ambassador at Washington, in 1862.

A list of the owners of the rebel loan in England has been published. Among those who invested, are several members of Parliament, two of the editors of the London Times, and two or three rebel pirate ship builders. They have been victimized to the amount of nearly $5,000,000, and now have the impudence to intimate that the United States Government is bound to pay them...

Second Day. The Convention reassembled at 9 A. M. and was opened by religious exercises by the Rev. Alexander Bass, Chaplain of the Convention.

It is with reverent and grateful acknowledgment of the divine favor and interposition that we accept the precious boon of freedom. Resulting as it has from a prolonged and bloody struggle of two great powers, and finally decreed by the national will, we look forward with confidence to see the decree ratified by the whole people of this State.

Resolved, That we do hereby approve and heartily endorse the administration of President Johnson, President of the United States, and hereby promise him our faithful and unflinching support in carrying out his policy in organizing the government of the Southern States.

GENERAL HUMPHREYS, an unpardoned rebel, and who cannot take the oath ordained by the law of Congress, has been chosen Governor of Mississippi by the people of that State. We suppose that he will be sworn in before the 15th inst., and will be the Provisional Governor, although the Provisional Governor's candidate was not elected.

Among the many interesting reminiscences connected with the war, few are more suggestive, in view of recent than the following extracts from Jeff Davis's proclamation of Dec. 23, 1863: "Now, therefore, I, Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States of America, and in their name, do announce and declare the said Benjamin F. Butler to be a felon deserving of capital punishment."

Blow ye the trumpet, blow, The gladly solemn sound, Let us be brave to all who in our clash and fall are true, Whoe'er he be, let us be true to his just and noble view.

Though it was impossible to remain indifferent spectators of the struggle, you will do us the justice to admit that we have remained throughout obedient and passive, acting such part only as has been assigned us, and calmly waiting upon Providence. Our brethren have fought on the side of the Union, while we have been compelled to serve in the camp, to build fortifications, and raise subsistence for the Confederate army.

Resolved, That the letter of instruction to Gov. H. Iden of North Carolina, in which he declares that returned Confederate soldiers who have been paroled and taken the oath prescribed by him, and who do not come within any of the exceptions named by him in his proclamation of amnesty, shall be restored to all the rights, privileges, and immunities of complete citizenship.
