

POETRY.

Where, Slavery, where are thy Great, Wise and Good?
Where thy proud names, gracing th' historic page,
Or waking memories like dear household words?

The Liberator.

LETTER FROM REV. SAMUEL J. MAY TO THE ALBANY CONVENTION.
SYRACUSE, Feb. 20, 1857.
DEAR FRIENDS:
I am so much disappointed in not being able to attend your Convention to-day and to-morrow, that I can console myself only by commencing with you, awhile, through the medium of my pen.

what if our union has been most profitable to us peculiarly? What if we have been enabled, by our connection with slaveholders, to accumulate a thousand-fold more than we could have done otherwise?
'All fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates and men decay.'

waste for the severer trials of her private life. It expresses no fear that she will suffer physically or morally when her husband is carried home to her in a state of intoxication which the roveliness of the bar-room will not tolerate, nor breathes any solace for her wounded soul as she sees him wandering outcast of society, and her dearest hopes of earthly happiness blighted by that vast category of sin and shame which all the concentrated wisdom of legislation has hitherto been unable to prevent.

NEW YORK CENTRAL COLLEGE.
TO THE EDITOR OF THE LIBERATOR:
We think but few of your readers are acquainted with the plan and operations of New York Central College, hence but few can feel its pressing claims upon them.

Advertisement for J.C. Ayer's Cathartic Pills, including text about the pills' benefits for various ailments and a testimonial from a woman.

LITTLE GRAVES.
There's many an empty cradle,
There's many a vacant bed,
There's many a lonely boom,
Whose joy and light have fled;

THE PRESS.
We twine no Alberts wreath to-day;
We hail with shouts no new-crowned king;
The song of triumph that we sing
Inspires a nobler zeal than they!

THE RIGHTS OF WOMAN.
EQUAL RIGHTS—THE ELECTIVE FRANCHISE.
To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of Massachusetts:
Your petitioner, believing that all true governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, and that taxation without representation is totally inconsistent with the Republican theory, equally oppressive and unjust in its results, upon whatever sex or class imposed, respectfully prays you to adopt such measures as will eventually secure to woman the right of suffrage.

PLEASE TO READ THIS ALOUD.
We, the undersigned, in behalf of the Library of New York Central College, would not thus come before you, were we not justified by the character and impelled by the circumstances of the Institution.

THEODORE PARKER.
PRESIDENT CALKINS:
MY DEAR SIR:—I rejoice to hear that the Institution over which you have the honor to preside is increasingly prosperous. Central College cannot fail to commend itself to all right-minded persons.

Autobiography of a Female Slave.
FOR sale at the Anti-Slavery Office, 21 Cornhill Street—the 'AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A FEMALE SLAVE'—published by REDFIELD, 24 Essex Street, New York—in one volume of 400 pages. Price $1.00.