

Boycott Workfare

Workfare - compulsory work for benefits - is being rolled-out across the country. It is replacing paid jobs and forcing unemployed people to work for the equivalent of £2.25 an hour.

The people being exploited through this scheme aren't just the minority 'benefit scroungers.'

They are people who are struggling to find work during a time of high unemployment, and even people with disabilities.

If people do not comply, they risk destitution: benefits can now be stopped for up to 2 years.

Eventually, it might be your job that is replaced by someone forced to 'volunteer'.
