THE 'BLOODY MONDAY' AT LOUISVILLE.

We give below some painful details of this sanguinary

The Louisville Democrat declares in the most emphatic terms that the police were taken possession of the Know Nothings, at a very early hour in the morning, and that they held them through the day, so foreigners being allowed to vote, unless he was expected to vote that ticket.

Early in the forenoon, in the First Ward, a party of Irishmen, headed by a forerunner among the mob, as reported to us, was George Berry, a carpenter, who lives corner of Ninth and Market. On Hancock street he was killed, or said to be.

A young man engaged at the ship yards was shot and killed. In the afternoon, his friends went to Main street, to avenge him; but they accomplished, we know not.

About three o'clock, as we went up Chestnut street, we heard, at the corner of Hancock, some twenty or thirty shots—men, women and children, running screeching, then crossed Clay street, we still heard shots, and saw the people running; as we crossed Shelby, the people were gathering in knots before their doors, and beginning to arm themselves to protect their lives and loved ones from the attack which was being made, and which was raging only one or two squares off.

We passed through the streets of the city, and saw the houses on Madison street, and saw the Germans in groups of two or three, with their rifles and shot-guns, going into their houses, prepared to defend them to the last drop. When we crossed Madison street and looked down it, we saw at the corner of Clay, coming out of the street, a man, who was shot with ten balls, and his head being nearly to death. Mr. Samuel Hamman was said to have been stabbed by his step-son, but we did not hear of his death.

Mr. John Hudson, a carpenter, living in the third ward, was shot in the back of the head.

The mob set fire to the corner of the corner of Main and Eleventh, and there were ten destroyed on the north side, mostly brick; two frames on the south side, one frame on Eleventh, below Main, and two frames in the alley below Main.

It was reported as a means of inciting the mob to demolish the houses, that there were thirteen kegs of powder in one of them. If there were, it must have been a queer kind of powder not to have exploded while the houses were burning down.

Another charge, which is probably true, is, that from one house on Chesapeake street, a man named Ray, shot, and that from the other houses shots were fired at persons passing in the street. Our only evidence is that of the Know Nothings, and we think they told the truth. One house at the corner of Chapel has several bullet holes in the window shutters, down stairs.

Some bones were found in the six or seven cellars, and it is generally believed that in the six or seven cellars, not less than twenty or thirty were buried or burned, for the houses were full, and not more than half were known to be killed or escaped. These houses belonged to Mr.

Quinn.

The people were all leaving that neighborhood who could possibly get away.

Mr. Joseph Allen, said to be an Irish Protestant, but not known what his politics, was shot and killed. He and his wife had hid themselves under a box; but were discovered, and he was shot, and she was shot, and she completely deserted. From Preston street east, not a business house was open, except here and there one shop; nobody to be seen, except now and then a woman in a scene of greater desolation in the midst of a large city we have never seen. The people are moving out of the city as rapidly as they can obtain conveyances; we have no doubt that before this night a thousand people —quiet citizens—will have left the city. This is foolish, but we cannot blame any one for leaving a place where he feels himself in hourly danger of losing his life.

While the mob was at its highest pitch of excitement,

SLAVE EXCITEMENT.

Our citizens were somewhat excited last week, by the discovery of a scheme formed by several negroes, in the vicinity to run away. The discovery of the plot was brought about in the following manner:

A negro man, the property of C. F. Moberly, of Baptist in Kansas Territory, by Rev. Mr. Farmer, of St. Louis, who brought him here and lodged him in jail.

His owner and others, suspecting interference of Abolitionists and that the mob might be extensively ramified, interrogated the runaway, and obtained the names of several negroes who had contemplated a trip to this country, and who were in Kansas Territory, in addition to this intelligence, by diligent enquiry, ascertained that the improper conduct of some, and downright advice of a few white men, had tended to induce these deluded slaves to prove faithless to kind and indulgent masters,

INVASION OF MEXICO.

We have intelligence of the concentration at Leon in Texas, of an auxiliary force intended for the conquest of the Santa Anna government in Mexico.

The concentration of the auxiliary force in Mexico, is a matter of great importance, and it is believed that the first detachment arrived there on the 15th July, more than two months ago, and that part of the expedition was expected to cross the Mexican boundary, and enter the invasion of a friendly soil for the first time.

The purpose of the gathering at Leon, is to prepare for the invasion of the United States, and to make a matter of inference and suspicion. Its leader is a man of great energy and ability, and he has published a manifesto to the people of Texas, declaring his designs to displace the far-famed Santa Anna, and more republican form of government, with the ultimate object of establishing the proud American flag over its protection. The name subscribed to this address is that of Capt. Henry, who distinguished himself by individual exploits of daring and gallantry, and who was at the head of the Texas army, and
