

PARC National Prisoner Resource Directory

Dear Community,

June 2023

Welcome to the June 2023 edition of PARC's National Prisoner Resource Directory. We are happy to share this valuable set of resources with you.

We have added many new organizations, so many that for the first time in our history, we have expanded to a 28 page directory! It is great to see new energy in the space of supporting those inside. There continue to be changes to the contact information and offerings of many of the groups listed here, so be sure to check for updated information before writing. Here are some tips for how to communicate with the organizations in this issue:

- Expect delays. Be patient and give organizations time to reply. Many of the groups listed here are all-volunteer, grassroots organizations that do this work as they are able.
- Write clearly and include your full return address on both the envelope and any letters you write.
- Keep a log of who you reach out to and dates when you reached out. Keep copies of all money orders or checks.
- If you don't hear back from an organization in over 3 months, try writing again, and let them know it is your second or third contact.

Each year, as we track the progress of the movement to transform the criminal punishment system, we see steps forward and backward. Across this country, there are over 1.2 million people incarcerated in state or federal prisons; the majority of whom are incarcerated under oppressive and unjust sentences, and in tortuous and inhumane conditions. Those who write to us share about unsafe sanitary conditions, inedible food, overcrowding, untreated mental health conditions, and failures to accommodate those with disabilities. At the same time, we see glimmers of hope in changes that might provide people some justice, such as the Racial Justice for All Act in California (AB 256), which makes certain anti-discrimination protections around sentencing retroactive. This will allow those with discriminatory and unfair convictions, which have already become final, to seek resentencing for a more just sentence under the law. We shall see if reform efforts such as these create real and meaningful change for those currently living behind bars.

Our current focus is on maintaining and distributing this Directory. As an all-volunteer organization, we do our best to respond to individual letters, but cannot always answer your specific questions or requests for advocacy. We are not a law office and cannot provide any legal advice or referrals. We do not have an office with regular hours, so we are unable to provide support over the phone. We do not keep a database of people who write to us; make note if you have written to us before.

We'd like to thank all of our partners across the country, including many books-to-prisoners organizations, for supporting the cost of printing this edition and for sending out the Directory from their headquarters. Please share this Directory with others, so that as many people as possible may benefit from the information. We continue to welcome information from you about which organizations have updated information or have become inactive; we especially like to hear about new organizations that provide direct services to people inside which can be considered for inclusion in our directory.

This year we honor the life of our friend, the freedom fighter and California hunger strike leader Paul Redd, who was released only a short time before he passed. During his 44 years in prison - 30 of which in solitary confinement - and only 25 months on the outside, Paul inspired countless people and reminded us of the incredible wisdom and strength of so many living behind bars. He wrote, "Perseverance affords you the inner strength to outlast the past and present conditions. Perseverance affords you the ability to withstand adversity and dig deep for the inner strength to carry on forward to accomplish your goals."

Thank you for building this community with us.

In solidarity toward justice,

PARC

PARC is not a law office or legal referral service. We cannot give legal advice.

Selected excerpts from the UNITED NATIONS STANDARD MINIMUM RULES FOR THE TREATMENT OF PRISONERS
(the Nelson Mandela Rules)

United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders, held at Geneva 1955, approved 1957. Revised and reapproved on May 22, 2015 as 122 individual rules, renamed the “Nelson Mandela Rules.” (Full set of all 122 Mandela Rules is 40 pages, available for download at: www.penalreform.org/wp-content/uploads/2015/05/MANDELA-RULES.pdf. According to letters from our readers, the UN will not send free copies.)

Basic Principles

- All prisoners shall be treated with the respect due to their inherent dignity and value as human beings. No prisoner shall be subjected to, and all prisoners shall be protected from, torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, for which no circumstances whatsoever may be invoked as a justification.

Books

- Every prison shall have a library for the use of all categories of prisoners, adequately stocked with both recreational and instructional books, and prisoners shall be encouraged to make full use of it.

Contacts with the Outside World

- Prisoners shall be allowed, under necessary supervision, to communicate with their family and friends at regular intervals: By corresponding in writing and using, where available, telecommunication, electronic, digital and other means; and, By receiving visits.
- Prisoners should have access to effective legal aid.
- Prisoners who are foreign nationals shall be allowed reasonable facilities to communicate with the diplomatic and consular representatives of the State to which they belong.
- Prisoners shall be allocated, to the extent possible, to prisons close to their homes or their places of social rehabilitation.

Education and Recreation

- Provision shall be made for the further education of all prisoners capable of profiting thereby.
- So far as practicable, the education of prisoners shall be integrated with the educational system of the country so that after their release they may continue their education without difficulty

Exercise and Sport

- Every prisoner who is not employed in outdoor work shall have at least one hour of suitable exercise in the open air daily if the weather permits.
- Young prisoners and others of suitable age and physique are to receive physical and recreational training during the period of exercise.

Food

- Every prisoner shall be provided by the prison administration at the usual hours with food of nutritional value adequate for health and strength, of wholesome quality and well prepared and served.

Guiding Principles

- The duty of society does not end with a prisoner’s release. There should, therefore, be governmental or private agencies capable of lending the released prisoner efficient aftercare directed towards the lessening of prejudice against him or her and towards his or her social rehabilitation.

Health-Care Services

- Prisoners should enjoy the same standards of health care that are available in the community, and should have access to necessary health-care services free of charge without discrimination on the grounds of their legal status.
- All prisons shall ensure prompt access to medical attention in urgent cases. Prisoners who require specialized treatment or surgery shall be transferred to specialized institutions or to civil hospitals.
- Clinical decisions may only be taken by the responsible health-care professionals and may not be overruled or ignored by non-medical prison staff.
- In women’s prisons, there shall be special accommodation for all necessary prenatal and postnatal care and treatment. Arrangements shall be made wherever practicable for children to be born in a hospital outside the prison.

Information to and Complaints by Prisoners

- Every prisoner shall be allowed to make a request or complaint regarding his or her treatment, without censorship as to substance, to the central prison administration and to the judicial or other competent authorities, including those vested with reviewing or remedial power.
- Every request or complaint shall be promptly dealt with and replied to without delay.
- A prisoner must not be exposed to any risk of retaliation, intimidation or other negative consequences as a result of having submitted a request or complaint.
- Allegations of torture or other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment of prisoners shall be dealt with immediately and shall result in a prompt and impartial investigation conducted by an independent national authority.

Institutional Personnel

- All prison staff shall possess an adequate standard of education and shall be given the ability and means to carry out their duties in a professional manner.

Instruments of Restraint

- The use of chains, irons or other instruments of restraint which are inherently degrading or painful shall be prohibited.

Restrictions, Discipline and Sanctions

- In no circumstances may restrictions or disciplinary sanctions amount to torture or other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment. The following practices, in particular, shall be prohibited: Indefinite solitary confinement; Prolonged solitary confinement; Placement of a prisoner in a dark or constantly lit cell; Corporal punishment or the reduction of a prisoner’s diet or drinking water; Collective punishment.

Searches of Prisoners and Cells

- Searches shall be conducted in a manner that is respectful of the inherent human dignity and privacy of the individual being searched, as well as the principles of proportionality, legality and necessity.
- Searches shall not be used to harass, intimidate or unnecessarily intrude upon a prisoner’s privacy.
- Prisoners shall have access to and be allowed to keep in their possession without access by the prison administration, documents relating to their legal proceedings.
