

Are you an association or institution working on the memory of social movements or labour history events? Do you want to be part of a network of similar institutions and learn from your colleagues in other countries? Do you take care of objects, publications or documents belonging to the heritage of such movements or events? Apply then for membership of IALHI – International Association of Labour History Institutions. We connect almost one hundred social and labour history institutions all over the world since the 1970s. We organize thematic annual conferences and open up millions of collection objects on the Social History Portal.

Connect Yourself to the World of Labour History

IALHI – International Association of Labour History Institutions

c/o International Institute of Social History
P.O. Box 2169
NL 1000 CD Amsterdam
The Netherlands
info@ialhi.org

Apply for Free Membership Trial

www.ialhi.org
Members enjoy free access to the Annual IALHI Conference

Visit the Social History Portal online

www.socialhistoryportal.org

photo © Filip Claus

Connect yourself to the world of Labour History

photo © Filip Claus

Social History portal

International Association of Labour History Institutions

Network of Best Practices

IALHI is the world's foremost network of social history institutions, connecting members from the EU, the US, Japan, Brazil, Russia, Australia etc. You will meet hundreds of social and labour history experts and discuss world level solutions to problems of research, preservation and dissemination.

photo © Filip Claus

IALHI

International Association of Labour History Institutions

Joint Research Projects

IALHI is a research network allowing members to jointly undertake submissions and applications for international project proposals and participate in research consortiums. Research topics include the history of trade unions and political movements as well as people's history, new social movements, or anti-globalisation and ecology activism.

Annual Thematic Conference

IALHI organizes a yearly conference for member knowledge exchange. Key note speakers are invited to a thematic workshop, covering issues such as digitization, new methods and migration heritage. Previous conference venues include Paris, Moscow, Rome, Johannesburg and New York.

Social History portal

Your Collections Online

The Social History Portal brings together the collections of IALHI member institutions, archives as well as libraries and museums and has a well-established News Service.

Socialhistoryportal.org offers access to millions of digital objects and collection items. Data can be distributed to other portals and social media such as Europeana and YouTube.