

The Regent Street Guide

regentstreetonline.com

Introduction

The sweeping curves, regal columns and majestic Portland stone facades; it is hard not to be impressed by Regent Street. But the famous thoroughfare at the heart of London is not simply about inspirational architecture, it is also home to a whole host of great shops, restaurants, bars and hotels.

Like so much that can still admit to being both 'British' and 'great', Regent Street has managed that magical balancing act of keeping a hold on its heritage whilst still embracing the future. In fact a sense of history married with stylish innovation and an international viewpoint is what Regent Street is all about. In the last five years, The Crown Estate, which oversees the street's development, has been investing £1 billion in transforming the street as part of a 20 year vision.

Designed as Europe's first purpose built shopping street by John Nash in 1811, the mile long street, which cuts through the streetwise charm of Soho and the sophistication of Mayfair, has seen many changes over the years. Only All Soul's Church remains from Nash's original regency design, but the spirit of the street remains the same. When it was first built, Regent Street was the place for fashionable London to meet and shop. Now, almost two centuries later, not only London, but the whole world meets to shop, eat, drink and relax on Regent Street.

A world of choice that mixes heritage with cutting edge style - and some great architecture too!
Now that really is impressive.

A showcase for his stylish menswear and womenswear collections (not to mention all manner of exquisite accessories), Ted Baker's Regent Street store typifies his eclectic style with an interior that's every bit as playful and sophisticated as the man himself.

The 8000 sq/ft store boasts a fully bespoke design packed full of quirky, distinctive touches, including a dedicated suiting area on the ground floor and a glorious womenswear showcase upstairs.

Granted a Royal Charter by Queen Elizabeth I in 1600, The East India Company was founded to explore the mysteries of the East. In the process, it mapped trade routes, established trading posts, discovered exotic goods and changed customs, tastes and ways of thought to influence the very fabric of our lives today.

Today, we invite you to join us in exploring artisan chocolates, rich teas, gourmet coffees and specialty foods. Crafted using only the finest of ingredients, our products are inspired by a spirit of travel and adventure, and connect cultures and customs through exotic flavours bound only by imagination.

australia

In 1978, a young Australian surfer named Brian Smith founded the UGG Australia brand against a backdrop of Southern California's endless beaches and relaxed, casual culture. It was here where the brand's iconic Classic sheepskin boots were first introduced to the world.

Today, UGG Australia is one of the most famous and enduring brands in the world. What began with a pair of boots on the beaches of Southern California is now a global lifestyle brand offering footwear, apparel, accessories and handbags.

UGG Australia now offers the ultimate brand experience in nearly 70 stores worldwide including New York, Los Angeles, Miami, London, Tokyo, Moscow and Paris.

UN UNITED NUDE™

A story that started with a broken heart, Architect Rem D Koolhaas tried to get back his girl by downsizing architecture to its most venerable scale, that of a woman's foot.

In 2003, United Nude was launched together with seventh generation shoemaker Galahad Clark. United Nude is an iconic brand at the intersection of fashion and design, creating products that are about clear concepts, elegance and innovation. While available in over 50 countries worldwide, United Nude has flagship stores in Amsterdam, London, New York, Vienna, Tel Aviv, Seoul and Tokyo.

AUBAINE

Aubaine means treat

It also means a wonderful place where you can find real bread, voluptuous cakes, perfect coffee and great French food.

Every Aubaine has a real chef, comfortable in a classic repertoire, but always ready to innovate. You will find meticulously prepared favourites: lobster spaghetti, beef carpaccio, a real burger and you will find some exciting specials too.

Eating and drinking 'en plein air' in London might not be traditional, but Aubaine has a dedicated terrace to delight and surprise.

Described by Pierre Koffman as "the only real brasserie in London", Zédel is a huge, bustling, grand and elegant Parisian brasserie transported to the heart of London. Open from noon to midnight, seven days a week, it serves great French food at remarkably low prices, with 2-course prix fixe menus starting at £8.95. Sharing its soaring, authentic 1930s interiors with Bar Americain and The Crazy Coqs cabaret room, it provides an experience unique in London: "an evening I relish is watching cabaret at The Crazy Coqs and then crossing the hall for supper. Truly affordable glamour." Fay Maschler, The Evening Standard.
