Choosing Quality Childcare Checklist

STARTING YOUR SEARCH...

What kind of program best meets the needs of your family?

- Small or large licensed Family Child Care Home.
- Preschool/Child Care Center.
- Nanny: Care in your own home (live-in or live-out).
- Care in a relative, friend or neighbor's home.
- Care shared with another family in both homes.

See "What Type of Care is Best for Your Family" handout*

CHOOSING YOUR PROVIDER...

Telephone the child care facility and briefly discuss:

- The age of your child and those in care.
- Days and hours care is needed.
- Any special needs your child may have.
- The experience and/or education of the caregiver.
- Whether or not the provider is on a Child Care Food Program funded by the USDA, which helps providers serve nutritious meals to the children.

Make appointments to visit as many facilities as possible with your child.

THE ENVIRONMENT...

- Is it clean, safe, and comfortable? Cheerful but not over stimulating?
- Does it have separate space for quiet play, active play, and outdoor play?
- Does it have age appropriate toys, books, paints, blocks, props for dramatic play, musical instruments, games, puzzles etc.?
- Does it reflect the diversity of the children in care?
- Is it safe & free of hazards, with a first aid kit, fire extinguisher, and smoke alarm? Are all wall sockets covered? Are poisons and medicines locked away?

THE PROGRAM...

- Are the minimum group size and adult-child ratios required by licensing maintained?
- Does it offer a balanced daily schedule?

- Does it offer age appropriate activities?
- Do adults encourage children to use their words to express themselves and problem solve?
- Is there a system in place for communicating with families daily?
- Are infants given equal time and attention as the older children?
- What are the types of disciplinary techniques used with children?

TERMS OF YOUR ARRANGEMENT...

- How much do you pay and when is it due?
- Do you pay for holidays, provider's vacation, your vacation, other absences?
- Do you pay extra for picking your child up late?
- What if the provider is sick or has a personal emergency?
- What is the policy when your child is sick?
- What do you need to bring for your child?
- What are the grounds, notice and payment requirements for ending your child care arrangement?

PREPARING YOURSELF and YOUR CHILD...

Develop a good relationship with the person caring for your child. You will need to be prepared to make a few changes and accept some differences.

REMEMBER...no one will take care of your child exactly the same way you would. It is important for your child to develop a close relationship to the person who takes care of him or her so he or she will feel secure enough to learn and thrive.

Take the time to talk regularly with your provider and your child about activities, needs, and preferences.

I want the person who cares for my child to believe she is capable of everything.

Parental Rights

Choosing child care is an important decision for you and your child. We suggest that you interview potential choices over the phone, then schedule visits and compare at least three programs. Ask for references and contact them. Only you can determine which child care option is best for your child.

It is important to note that licensed child care facilities provide Community Resources for Children with information about their establishments. We do not inspect programs to verify information accuracy and cannot be responsible for changes in this information. We update information on child care facility openings every three months and request updates on other service information annually.

The California Department of Social Services, Community Care Licensing Division is the regulatory body that licenses, inspects and regulates child care in California. As a parent, you have the right to review any child care facility's inspection records, violations and complaints.
