“ The annual conference is a fantastic opportunity to network with our publisher clients and to learn about emerging technologies and trends in our sector, and for the sharing of ideas and experience within the publishing community.

Michael Evans, The Charlesworth Group

“ Thank you so much. It was a fab course and interesting to engage with the wider academic publishing community.

“ One of the upsides of the shift to remote work and training has been the ALPSP events offered virtually. While my organization was unable to send staff members to in person training courses out of the country, this year many team members have been able to attend ALPSP virtual training sessions. These have been topically appropriate and immediately applicable in the workplace.

Rose Sokol-Chang,
American Psychological Association

“ ALPSP has really given me that opportunity to meet new people, to learn more about other specific areas by attending training, and by giving me a complete update about what is going on in the industry.

Emily Davies,
Wiley
